SAAJ The Securities Analysts
Association of Japan

The Securities Analysts Award for Excellence in Corporate Disclosure is an award system in which securities analysts develop objective criteria for evaluating the quality, quantity, timing, and other aspects of a company's disclosure and has been conducted every year since 1995. Of the 300 companies in 18 different categories, Sekisui House was ranked No. 1 in the Construction / Housing / Real Estate out of 17 companies in that category for the reasons shown below.

Reasons for selection (excerpts)

Management approach to IR	Rated highly for the company's well-balanced IR response, including financial and non-financial aspects, accurate explanation of medium- and long-term growth potential, ESG management, etc., and active involvement in IR by the directors in charge.
Briefings, etc.	The quarterly information disclosure and disclosure in presentation materials were highly rated, as was the disclosure of divisional trends and the content of business sector-specific briefings.
Fair Disclosure	The commitment to fair disclosure and information disclosure through websites and remote tools were rated highly.
ESG	The company was rated highly for being proactive in not only disclosing but also explaining non-financial information; and also for providing sufficient explanations of each item of the Corporate Governance Code, including the progress status of each item. The content of ESG briefings and disclosure of capital policies were also highly rated.
Voluntary Disclosure	The "proactive and fair implementation of various site tours and business information sessions" was highly rated. The project-specific and international project information sessions also received high marks.

Sekisui House was highly evaluated for its overall information disclosure efforts. We believe that this award also recognizes our sincere and transparent information disclosure and proactive communication activities concerning the entire Sekisui House Group. Encouraged by this award, we will continue to further build a relationship of trust with our shareholders, investors, and all stakeholders.

The Sekisui House Group will continue to work to build a sustainable society and aims to be a leading company in ESG management.

We also publish our Value Report 2022 - Our Engagement which is an integrated report presenting business, financial, and non-financial information.
